

A rather hasty Korean female architect, based in Seoul and also London, introduced Rowan Moore to me by email without asking me. And Moore sent me a short message that he want to know more about Korean Pavilion. He is more an architectural journalist for The Guardian. What do you think? I feel forced to reply.

<http://www.theguardian.com/profile/rowan-moore>